G. Raymond Clark

Services for G. Ray Clark, 70, a lifetime resident of the Putney area, were held Monday, Jan. 20, at 2 p. m. at the local Methodist Church with the Rev. K. Oliver Brekke officiating. Burial was in the Groton cemetery.

Active pall bearers were George Alberts Jr., Dale Hosley, Robert Jensen, Gerald Rix, Merrill Rix and Emery Sippel.

Honorary pall bearers were Dean Honey, Frank Jensen, Walter Kepke, Lyman Matthews, Floyd Rix and Foster Rix.

Music was provided by Misses Margaret and Myrtle Blader, who sang "Abide With Me," and "Rock of Ages," accompanied by Mrs. Robert Wegner at the organ.

George Raymond Clark was born Feb. 26, 1893. He died Jan. 16, 1964, after a very short illness.

He was the third son of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark of Putney. His entire life was spent on the old farm with the exception of six years while he attended Groton elementary and high school, graduating in 1913. After finishing high school, he entered into partnership in farming operations with his brother, John L. Clark and made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Clark until 1937, when he married Madeline Olmstead at a beautiful garden wedding at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Homer Veatch in Pullman, Wash. They then returned to Putney and built their home. One daughter, Alta June, was born to them and she died in infancy. His wife, Madeline, was very active in the civic, social, church and club life of the community, being the state president of extension clubs for several years and in whose interests, they made trips to many parts of the United States and Canada.

Since retiring from active farming, his hobbies have been flower growing and beekeeping. His beautiful gladiola have been a delight to his neighbors and friends and he enjoyed entering them in the Harvest Festival.

He was preceded in death by his wife and an infant daughter. He is survived by a brother, John of Groton; and two sisters, Mrs. A. A. Quintal, Mitchell and Mrs. E. D. Schock, Spokane, Wash., and by 5 nieces and 4 nephews.

Pactznick Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.
